DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Osawa (JP 10-321583). The claims are reasonably and broadly construed, in light of the accompanying specification, to be disclosed by Osawa, because each of the claimed features are shown on the face of that reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 5-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Osawa in view of Hood (US 3,953,265). Osawa discloses the claimed invention, as rejected above, except for the recited bath container, outflow unit, and cover unit. Hood, another substrate device, discloses those features at column 5 line 61 through column 6 line 63. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to combine the teachings of Osawa with the disclosed features of Hood, for the purpose of enclosing the fluid substrate device such that it can be dried more efficiently and with greater containment of fluid and drying. Furthermore, Osawa discloses the claimed invention, except for the recited transverse or parallel application with multiple steps, or situation and locations. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to recite those features, since the teachings of Osawa perform the invention as claimed, regardless of those recited features.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The prior art of record cited with this action teach one or more features of the claimed invention, but are not relied upon in rejecting the claims.
